

ELIHU ROOT'S REMARKS FIRE SENATORS

PIERPONT MORGAN FAILS IN TELEPHONE DEALS

Objections Strenuously Urged to New York Senator's Observations on Senatorial Elections---Impressive Scene During Speech.

GOVERNMENT MUST CONTROL

Senators From South Fear That If Sutherland Amendment Is Incorporated in Bill Providing For Direct Vote of People Own Constitutional Rights Will Be Trampled Upon. Senator Bacon Gets Direct Answer to Query as to Its Effect.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The speech of Senator Elihu Root in the senate against the election of United States senators by direct vote was characterized on the floor as one of the most impressive ever delivered in that body. For more than two hours the senator from New York held the attention of every member and the crowded galleries while he pictured the effect of the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment upon the institutions of the country and the senate itself.

Mr. Root declared that the proposed change was based upon distrust, upon a theory that state governments are corrupt and incompetent. Senator Root held up before the senate the consequences of this theory when pushed to its logical conclusion, raising his voice in solemn warning that it would lead ultimately to a breaking up of the republic along new lines.

Senator Root before he had concluded had stirred the southern senators with the idea that the proposed legislation will give the federal government power to annul the grandfather clauses in the constitutions of the southern states. The southern senators, nearly all of whom favor the direct election resolution, were greatly aroused over Senator Root's speech and clearly indicated that they would not risk any action which might put the federal government in the way of interfering with the qualifications that have been prescribed in southern states for the black voter.

Amendment Arouses Fears.
The Sutherland amendment to the direct elections resolution is the feature of the proposition that is both alarming the southern senators. This amendment provides that congress shall have power to fix time and place and prescribe the manner and methods of elections for United States senators. If the Sutherland amendment is adopted the votes of the southern Democrats on the general proposition apparently will be alienated.

The rumour with the southern senators came at the conclusion of Senator Root's speech. Senator Bacon of Georgia arose and, after declaring that the speech was one of the most impressive ever delivered in the senate, he asked Senator Root to explain what he meant by certain veiled references to conditions in southern states.

Senator Root in reply recalled that he had been discussing the proposed amendment in the direct election resolution by the government of the United States of the power necessary to enforce effectively the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution.

"There are some things done in the south," said he, "which I know the senator from Georgia deprecates. There are the lynchings and cases of poisoning. Then there are the constitutions with their grandfather clauses which were adopted to nullify the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. The people of the United States are apparently willing to hold their hands and to give Godspeed to the southern people so that they can work out their delicate problems, but if the time comes for the protection of the blacks and the people of the nation are convinced that oppression is being visited on them, then the great reserve power of the national government will be exercised and exercised in these

In the executive session the nominations of ex-Representative Duncan McKinley to be surveyor of customs for the district of San Francisco and James J. Britt of North Carolina to be third assistant postmaster general, were confirmed.

Mortgage Frauds Unearthed.
Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11.—The alleged forgery of two mortgages, involving $3,750 have been found as a result of the investigation by state examiners on the books of the People's Building and Loan association of Sharonville, O. Following these disclosures it was announced that the state examiners have made other discoveries.

Boy Kills Comrade.
Wellston, O., Feb. 11.—Carelessly handling a shotgun, Newton Butler, 14, instantly killed Willie Marks, 12. The two, with companions, had been hunting in the woods and had been shooting at a target, when young Butler jokingly said to Marks, "I'm going to shoot you, Willie." He pulled the trigger, killing Marks.

Many Voters On The Rack

Election Grafters at Danville Await Names of Indicted Men.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 11.—The Vermillion county grand jury which has been investigating vote-selling in the county presented a partial report in court. It contains 216 true bills and 16 no bills. It is declared that a large number of the bills are for vote-selling and perjury.

There was a great deal of excitement in the vicinity of the courthouse. A large crowd congregated and speculation was rife as to the number of politicians caught. The fact that the jury returned to its deliberations at such a late hour indicated that more indictments will be returned before adjourning this afternoon.

New Aero Iceboat Travels at Speed of Seventy Miles an Hour

WHEN Americans start to go any place they usually want to go in a hurry. Speed is one of the great considerations in all methods of travel. This element is one of the characteristics of the aero iceboat invented by Charles J. Swain of Philadelphia. He has his craft, which he has named Doodang, at Saranac lake, New York, and he has been traveling over the frozen surface of that body of water at fifty, sixty and even seventy miles an hour. The Doodang is merely an automobile mounted on skids instead of on wheels, and it is driven through the air by a propeller very much like those used on aeroplanes. The propeller is attached to a shaft which passes over the head of the chauffeur of the iceboat. The engine that drives the craft has six cylinders and can develop sixty or seventy-five horsepower. When going at full speed Mr. Swain says the craft will leap over holes in the ice and that rough places do not bother him materially. The Doodang is steered by means of a wheel which controls the front runners as the wheel of an auto controls the front wheels.

TAFT'S SORE THROAT IS A BIG HANDICAP

In Columbus Speech---Banquet Concludes a Busy Day in Ohio Capital---Chats with Governor and Mrs. Harmon After Speech---Doctor in Attendance.

PHOSPHATE IS HIS THEME

Says He Has Withdrawn Millions of Acres of Land Known to Contain Valuable Deposits---Can Not Forbid Exportation, but by Government Ownership Product Can Be Conserved For Use of American Farmers---Dispute With Germany.

Columbus, O., Feb. 11.—President Taft is suffering from a severe cold, which has settled in his throat, and as a result his physician, Dr. J. J. Richardson, ordered him to go easy in his oratorical efforts while in this city and to expose himself to the elements as little as possible.

After his address on reciprocity at the National Corn exposition, President Taft was taken to the executive mansion, where he chatted for a short time with Governor and Mrs. Harmon, and from there he went direct to his private car "Federal."

Later the president attended a banquet given at the Ohio State university by President Thompson and the officials of the corn exposition. He spoke briefly on the subject of the conservation of phosphates and the status of the dispute between the United States and Germany over American potash mine contracts. He said:

To Conserve Supply.
"Within the past few months I have directed the withdrawal of millions of acres of lands known to contain phosphates, to prevent their acquisition by private capital. The time will come when American farmers will need them. We have no power to forbid exportation or to charge a duty on exports, but if the government owns the resources, it will be possible for the government, as the lessor, to control the product." He called attention to the exhaustion of South Carolina phosphate lands and said the thing America needed most was potash. This, he said he had been told by the head of the geological survey, might be found in some of the desert lands.

Taft then narrated the story of American contracts for the product of phosphate mines in Germany and the difficulty the department of state was having in negotiating the deals.

The president wound up his day in Columbus by shaking hands with the members of the Buckeye club at their ball in Memorial hall, after which he left for Springfield, Ill., where, his throat permitting, he will this afternoon address the legislature on the subject of reciprocity.

WANT CORN PROTECTED

Ohio Growers Take Exceptions to Taft's Reciprocity Deal.

Columbus, O., Feb. 11.—Upon the heels of President Taft's speech favoring a reciprocity treaty with Canada, about 300 members of the Ohio Corn Improvement association, in session here, passed resolutions condemning the proposed reduction in the tariff on farm products.

The resolutions read as follows: "We doubt the wisdom of throwing open unreservedly our ports to Canadian farm products. By so doing the American farmer will be unable to obtain a fair compensation for the time and labor which he invests in his business, and we recommend that no action be taken by our national government that shall be detrimental to his interests."

Two Killed When Tank Falls.
Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 11.—William Jones and John P. Withers of Memphis were killed and 15 negroes employed at the Novelty Candy company plant were injured when a huge water tank on the roof broke through and wrecked the rear of the building. Fifty girls employed at the place escaped unhurt.

Big New York Financier Will Not Secure Control of Independent Telephone Companies Representing Many Millions.

MELVIN VANIMAN
Will Attempt to Cross Atlantic in Balloon.

Vaniman Balloon Voyage Assured

Cincinnati Men Agree to Finance Transatlantic Venture.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11.—It is declared that all the plans have been completed for the organization of a company of Cincinnati citizens to finance a proposed trip of a dirigible balloon across the Atlantic ocean. The balloon is to be in charge of Melvin Vaniman, who was engineer of the balloon America, in which Walter Wellman, former Cincinnati newspaper man, attempted to cross the Atlantic recently. The cost of the airship is estimated at $70,000. As planned now, the trip is to be started from Cincinnati in July, probably on Independence day.

The plans were primarily discussed at a meeting in the Union Savings Bank and Trust building attended by August Herrmann, the politician and baseball magnate; Archibald S. White, financier and promoter; Max Fleischmann, banker and globetrotter; E. R. Blaine, Joseph J. Heekin and members of the Cincinnati Commercial association, who are interested in the plan.

Twenty-four of Crew Drown.
Perth, West Australia, Feb. 11.—The Russian bark Glenbank has been wrecked off Cossack and 24 of her crew drowned. Only one sailor was saved. The Glenbank, loaded with copper ore, was bound up the coast when driven upon a reef by a squall. The sole survivor reached here after being lashed to a spar for 18 hours.

PROMINENT OFFICIAL TALKS

Says Effort Is Being Made to Have Ohio Mergers Declared Illegal and That Bell Interests Are Now Fighting to Secure Kansas City System as Latter Controls Situation in Middle West—Chicago Meeting Comes to End.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—The Bell Telephone company, backed by the J. P. Morgan interests, will not gain control of the independent concerns of the country, representing many millions of dollars of capital. This became known when, just before adjournment, a set of resolutions condemning such a merger, as had been tentatively proposed, was adopted by the 300 delegates to the National Independent Telephone association in convention here.

The second portion of the resolutions was the question of the establishment of a public commission to regulate telephones and compel the interchange of service for the accommodation of the public.

"The Bell people have secured certain independent companies in Ohio and are trying to get those at Kansas City," an official explained. "The fight is being made that the Ohio deals are illegal. Kansas City is more important, for it controls the entire middle west and gives all independent companies territory that otherwise could not be used. We do not believe Morgan will secure this control."

EXPLAIN GRAVE ROBBERY

Detectives Say Ghoul After Mrs. Scott's Jewels.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 11.—Two detective agencies claim to have discovered the body of Mrs. McCollom. They say they started a systematic search and found the body in the crypt directly under the one which first contained it. The object of the robbers was to steal any jewels that might be found on the bodies of the two women, they claim. The only bodies taken from the caskets, according to the detectives, were those of Mrs. Scott and Mrs. McCollom.

Woman Smuggler Jailed.

New York, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Roberta Menges Corwin Hill, divorced wife of Major Hill of the British army and well known Brooklyn society woman, admitted smuggling clothes and jewelry when arraigned before Judge Martin in the federal court. Judge Martin sent Mrs. Hill to Tombs prison for three days and fined her $2,000.

Wrong Man Surrenders To Police

Kentucky Officers Say McNamara Not Wanted For Murder.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 11.—The man who surrendered to the police in New York Sunday saying he was "King McNamara," who had killed a man in Lexington 12 years ago, arrived here in charge of Deputy Sheriffs Wilkerson and Wilson and has turned out to be someone else. He is not the murderer of Jacob Skeller. When the two officers arrived with their charge they were met by a crowd of a thousand people, all eager to get a glimpse of the man who had caused so much speculation and about whose identity about $4,000 had been wagered. As the man was led through the crowd a shout went up, "That's not King McNamara!"

WILLARD'S CONFESSION BELIEVED BY POLICE

Former "Horseman" of This City Makes Peculiar Confession to Chicago Police, Which is Investigated and Believed True by Windy City Detectives. Looks Bad for Willard.

Later Associated Press dispatches contain an account of the complete confession of Chas. M. Willard, who in 1906 and 1907 was connected with the local sales barn.

Even a thief isn't safe in Chicago. Is the plea Charles Willard made to the police yesterday, when he confessed that he held up Rector's restaurant last Sunday morning and got $3300. Willard's joy in his possessions was short-lived, however, for as he was leaving the safe door he was greeted by three men, who, with a revolver pressed against his side, escorted him to an alley and robbed him of the proceeds of the holdup.

Willard, according to his confession, was one of three conspirators who planned and executed the Rector holdup. He, in turn, was the victim of a conspiracy devised by a friend to whom he confided the plan for robbing the cafe.

The story, incredible as it first seemed to the police, was corroborated by them; $500 was recovered and William Loftus, a saloonkeeper, has been rearrested and charged with being an accessory to the robbery and with having received stolen property.

The original robbery took place in Rector's restaurant Sunday morning, when a bandit entered as John Adams the cashier, and Ray Salsline, the head waiter, were near the cashier's desk. Pointing a revolver at the men he proceeded in true holdup fashion to procure $3300, which was taken from the cashier's desk.

The police searched vainly for the lone desperado for many hours, when a note from an unidentified woman gave them a clue as to the nature of the holdup.

Waiter Also Involved

Salsline was arrested and confessed that he had arranged with Willard to commit the robbery. He notified Willard as to the most opportune time to appear. Adams was not a party to the conspiracy.

Salsline named Harry Anderson, a companion, as one of the conspirators, and after the arrest of Willard both denounced him for his failure to meet them later and divide the spoil.

Willard, after his arrest, insisted that he in turn had been held up a few minutes after leaving the restaurant. The police refused to believe him, but later developments proved that he had told the truth.

Loftus is a saloonkeeper in whose place Willard was in the habit of spending much of his time. When the plot to rob the restaurant developed Willard confided in his friend, Loftus, and sought his aid to the extent of borrowing two revolvers.

"Pretty soft for me," said Willard, according to his confession.

"Sure, pretty soft," replied Loftus, and then began to plan for the second robbery.

"When I came out of the restaurant with the money in my pocket," said Willard, "three men were waiting for me. 'We want you, Charley,' said one, and he pressed the end of a revolver against me.

Thought They Were Policemen.

"I thought they were policemen."

called by other waiters and that I was under arrest. They joked me about getting away so easy. With a revolver pressed into my coat, we walked into an alley back of the Hamilton Club, half a block from the cafe.

"When we reached the alley the men turned in, forcing me to go with them. One of them covered my mouth with his hand, one pressed the revolver against my ribs and the third took the money away from me. They kept on joking about how easy it was.

"Pretty soft, Charley," said the one with the revolver, and then the three walked away. I could not make any complaint about it, but had to hurry away to keep from being arrested myself.

Willard declares his first thought, after the men left, was to report the theft to the police, but that inclination was overcome by the realization that he would be greeted with unexpected warmth at the police station.

FAYETTE COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY

Passes Resolutions Expressive of the Love and Esteem in Which Dr. S. A. Ireland was Held by Members.

The Fayette County Medical Society of which Dr. S. A. Ireland, was a distinguished and honored member, at its meeting on the evening of the 7th inst. passed resolutions expressive of respect and the esteem in which the members of that society held Dr. Ireland and the value of his work in the profession.

The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The great physician on high has, in His divine wisdom, called from his earthly labors our beloved brother and co-worker Dr. Stephan Alvin Ireland, who was ever loyal, courteous and faithful to the members of our society as well as to the profession at large, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who has guided us and taught us the inimitable laws that govern the powers of nature in health and disease.

That we feel keenly being deprived of the wise counsel of our deceased brother and the power for good of his genial, sunny disposition during the many trying hours when his skill was taxed in an effort to conserve life.

That we unite in affirming our belief that he has been called to yet higher duties of ministration in the beautiful life where pain and suffering shall be no more.

And further, that we extend our deepest sympathies to all who have been sorely bereaved by his untimely death.

A RARE OLD MAP OWNED BY F. M. KENNEDY

Recalls Many Interesting Landmarks of the Early Days in Washington, and is Highly Prized by Its Owner---Town was Very Small in Those Days.

Hanging on the wall of Mr. Frank M. Kennedy's surveyors office and attracting no little attention and interest is a map of Washington C. H., drawn in 1869.

Mr. Kennedy does not remember how this map came into his possession, but it was some years ago. He knew nothing of the date of the map until one day he showed it to the late Judge H. B. Maynard. Judge Maynard said that it bore the date of 1869 and in one corner wrote this date and signed his initials.

No other map of this period is known to be in existence. It is in fairly good condition and Mr. Kennedy has had it framed and intends to preserve it carefully.

To the older citizens of the town and to those of the younger generation, who have been connected with the pioneers of our city, the map is a vastly interesting study.

It presents a bird's eye view of Fayette's county seat as it appeared in 1869. The circumscribed space of Washington at that time, the acres of pasture and timber land that now are solidly built up, the old-fashioned buildings, without a suggestion of the architecture of today, arouses wonder that our city could attain to its present growth and its modern appearance in less than a half century.

Court street in '69 showed more resemblance to the present conditions than any other street. The Arlington hotel was then built on the corner of Court and Fayette and across from the old Court house there was a block that represented at that time much of the town's business. The old Dahl block stood where the Katz-Chaffin store now rises and the Yeoman and Nitterhouse block on the present site of Craig Bros. store. Further down on Court, were the homes of the Furtwänglers, McLeans, Willards, Willetts and Melvin there being few other residences in all that section. Where now stands the handsome Sharp home was a forest and the Ogle and Morris properties stood humbly on Washington avenue.

Main street stopped at Paint creek, where the Masonic Temple and the Stutson department store now stands was timber land and pasture, as was also the Judy block, occupied by the Smith store. The old Burnett building was then a landmark on the corner of Main and Market and the old Cherry Hotel across had primitive existence. North Main was all pasture, with the home of Father Miller, one of the early Presbyterian pastors, standing in isolation at the corner of Temple, and the Catholic church beyond what is now the colored M. E. church.

On the corner of Market and Hinde streets stood the old Presbyterian church, a gaunt rectangular structure, with a tall spire and not a line of grace.

In three blocks on Hinde the only residence was the old Stimson home-stand, now owned by W. W. Millikan.

Going over towards what is today the pretty suburb of Millwood, the only buildings were the Curran, Millikan mill and the old Millikan home-stand, now the property of Mr. John Persinger. Opposite the present D. T. & L. station was Willson's planing mill and at the foot of Court, near the old covered bridge the Fayette Woolen Mills, of Van Daman and Dews, did a thriving business for that day. These mills were destroyed in the cyclone.

Across on Shadyside were the homes of several pioneer families: the Judge Daniel McLean home, now occupied by his daughter, Mrs. Robert Howat, the Van Deiman home-stand, now the property of Mr. T. M. Ustick; the Madison Pavey residence and the Draper property, now belonging to Mrs. Jane Daugherty. All around was chick forest.

On Circle avenue stood the Allen Hepler home, the old Gardner home, back of the present one, and the Silcott home, which has been remodelled in recent years.

Across the country is seen the incoming train of Washington's only railroad, the Cincinnati and Zanesville, then called "Old Sheepskin". Opposite the old railroad station stood the old Gardner house, where is now the Imperial hotel. The Ely and Stimson store occupied the present site of the Ballard and Link stores. There was a bare pasture land where the large Dahl, Millikan plant is now erected.

The Public school building was then two stories and called the Union School. Beyond it on North the Robinson and Brownell homes broke the stretch of the Jeffersonville pike, and on Temple street the only houses of consequence were the Cleveland and Wendell homes.

The old M. E. church was just completed, but the congregation was still worshipping in the building which occupied the site of the present Hodson hospital.

Market street presented a sparsely settled district, with the old Bereman house the farthest out of town and a bare stretch of country beyond.

There was practically no East street, but the old First Baptist church rose in the Burnett addition.

The map is thought to have been sketched from the old Millikan mill.

Across from it Mr. Kennedy has hung a map of Washington C. H. in 1910, and those who see it marvel at the progress and growth of our town into the greater Washington of today.

REFORM THE BOYS.

There is much agitation in Ohio just now relative to prison reform.

The world is rapidly learning that the way to reform criminals is to do it before they have acquired the criminal instinct. Something may be accomplished at reforming boys from ten to twenty years of age when their characters are yet plastic, but when a man has arrived at the age of thirty-five or forty and becomes hardened in crime, having known scarcely any other life, this reformation is a very serious problem.

We have long since passed the stage when society desires to compensate justice by inflicting upon a man as nearly as possible the same sort of pain that he, by some criminal act, has inflicted upon some other person. Under our Christian dispensation we hardly hold to the old doctrine, "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth." We no longer cut off a man's hand as the old Egyptians did, because he had committed forgery, or tear out his tongue because he has borne false witness. Vengeance is not supposed to be a part of our present criminal code.

In reforming society and getting rid of criminals there is no doubt that the best method is to begin before the child is born. Heredity without question has a great deal to do with the career of an individual. "Men do not gather figs from thorns, or grapes from thistles." But another law that is just as unalterable is, that a boy to become a good man must be taught right principles. It is certain that if you take two boys of equal intellect and equal advantages from a hereditary standpoint and surround one with every vicious influence and place the other where he will be taught nothing but the precepts of honor, integrity and charity, one will become a noble splendid man, while the other will develop into a first class criminal.

If we grant this law to be true and further concede that the impulses of the boy to do good are no more than equal to the impulses in a boy to do bad then it certainly is a mistake for society, when boys are placed in its charge, because of some misdemeanor, to herd them indiscriminately without any classification whatever, as we do in our reformatories at Lancaster and Mansfield.

What chance has a boy of good impulses to develop the better side of his nature if he is associated by compulsion at his meals, at his work, at his play and during his sleeping hours, with half a dozen boys who are already criminals by heredity and training.

This is what is being done at a great expense day after day and year after year at our reformatories for boys. You go to the Lancaster Reform Farm and see standing by the side of a boy with bright eyes and intelligent face and every bearing of energy and aspiring ambition, a boy ready to be educated into a first class citizen, you can see standing by the side of this boy a youngster who is already saturated with criminal tendency. This is not right.

No boy has a chance to become a man no matter what the officers may be, no matter what his food may be, no matter what his teachers may be, no matter what his tendencies may be, no matter how clean you keep him, no matter how industrious he may be, if you surround him continually with bad associates of his own age.

There is no question but that a large percentage of the boys who are sent to this reform farm are of dissolute character when they go there, but there is a small percentage who are not dissolute characters who go there, but it is doubtful if any percentage comes away from there untinctured by the influence of the disreputable associates that have been forced upon them. Another thing is, that a boy comes from these institutions branded as a criminal. It is an unfair handicap; for oftentimes his offense has been small indeed. He goes out into the world like Jean Valjean with his yellow passport, from his nineteen years in the galleys.

Isn't there some better way of handling these youngsters that will give them better surroundings; better influences, greater opportunities? Wouldn't it be possible for these young chaps to be placed in private homes where they might have the example of sturdy character constantly before them? The State might pay for their keeping in which event there would be thousands of splendid families willing to receive them, or at least the more desirable ones. The State could retain its authority and surveillance equal to what it now possesses, and the boy when he grew to manhood would have an opportunity to start life like other fellows.

If there be virtue in divided rule and responsibility, the next House should be a paragon. It has been settled that no chairman of its important committees shall hold membership on any other committee.

Congress has been told by the printing investigation commission how more than a million a year may be saved, but, alas, it involves giving up pie—abolishing House and Senate folding rooms, which provide many jobs.

Trying to put the other fellow in a hole seems to be rated statesmanship in Congress, even if it's spoken of by outsiders as "peanut politics."

Senator Aldrich must pause between baiting his hooks to chuckle when he thinks of the number of men now engaged in trying to boss the Senate, and how easy he did it all by his lonesome.

Mayhap the mission of the new sun, discovered by Mount Wilson Observatory, is to make it hot for somebody.

Wit and Humor

Easier to Hit.

Buffalo Bill, who says that with hard work a man should live to be a centenarian, talked at a reunion of Kansas cavalymen about straight shooting. "It is hard work to learn to be a good shot," he said. A French prince visited me on my ranch once and we went out after birds. I came back with a full bag, but when I asked the prince what he had killed he said proudly: "Of ze birds, none; zey are too difficle; but of ze wild cow and calves, I have nine oval ve hit!"—Philadelphia Record.

Correctly Described.

A late chief staff officer of one of the infantry regiments, relating some of the experiences of the expedition, said that one day, after hours of laborious climbing up a steep and never-ending path, he heard a groan of despair from a private soldier.

"Look, here, Bill, I've ad enough of this," the soldier said to his comrade. "I was told 'as 'ow it was a bloomin' tableland!"

"So it is. Can't you see yere climbin' up one of the legs of it?" returned Bill, with a jocular superiority.—Philadelphia Gossip.

His Marathon Record.

"Colonel," asked a beautiful Chicago girl of a recent Windy City visitor from Dixie, "did you ever ride a horse 90 miles in three days?"

"No," replied the veteran of two wars, "but I once ran 20 miles in about 30 minutes, which, I think was going some, considering the fact that the underbrush was thick and I was in so much of a hurry that I forgot to throw away a knapsack that weighed nearly 50 pounds."

Equal to It.

They were out motoring the other day round Richmond, and bid defiance to all police traps. "We're going at 50 miles an hour," he said. "Are you brave?"

"She (swallowing another pint of dust), 'Yes, dear, I'm full of grit.'"—Tribune.

The Winning Smile.

Maggie—Say, Minnie, I don't see how you got so stuck on him. He ain't good looking for nothing.

Minnie—I know he ain't, but didn't you ever notice what a lot of gold he's got in his teeth?

Among the Wise Ones.

Gunner—"I am thinking about making a trip to New York. They say you can do Wall street in an hour."

Guy—"Yes, and Wall street can do you in two or three minutes."

Merely Local.

Young Thomas, afflicted with a green apple pain in his midst, thus explained his condition to his mother: "Mother, I've got an awful pain right in the middle of my stomach, but the rest of me feels fine!"—Tippencott's.

In the Luxury Class.

Some investigator says that the love of opera is a disease.

Luckily, it is like appendicitis. It usually spares those who can't afford it.

Became Proficient.

"How did you happen to become a Renting change artist?"

"I got started at the game by watching my winter flannels off and on."

Safe Investment.

Wit illumines one of the dueling stories in Monsieur Rongier-Dorciere's recent book, "Sur Le Pe.".

Prince Pierre Bonaparte and a French gentleman, Monsieur de la Valette, fought with pistols. The prince fired, hit De la Valette just above the belt, but did not wound him, owing to a five-franc piece in his waistcoat pocket, against which the bullet was flattened.

"Sir," said Prince Bonaparte to his adversary, holding out his hand, "let us make friends, and allow me to congratulate you on the foresight with which you have invested your money."

Disputed Identity.

There is excuse for hesitancy in accepting proffered information under extraordinary conditions. "All the latest popular novels!" sang out the grain boy, then holding out a copy of "The Guest of Queensay" to a prosperous looking passenger, he urged: "Buy Booth Tarkington's latest work, sir?"

The man looked annoyed. "Not I am Booth Tarkington himself?"

"Then, buy a copy of 'Three Weeks,'" persisted the boy. "You ain't Ellnor Glyn too, are you?"

Would Please Brier Mule.

The traveler met an old colored man with a billy mule.

"What's the matter with him, uncle?" asked the traveler.

"Full of pure cussedness, sah. He'll stay right in dat same position for two or three hours, sah."

"That so? Why don't you build a fire under him?"

"What? A fire under dat mule? Lands, mister, if Ah built a fire under dat mule he'd stay here all day an' wahn himself."

ORIGIN OF THE TAXATION SYSTEM.

Our system of taxation had its origin in the period of feudalism, when the tax was laid upon those, and those only, who could not resist the payment of it.

The plan then was earnestly argued in those days—that it was a proper distribution of the burdens of government that the clergy should pray for the government, the nobles fight for it, and the common people should pay the taxes. The first fruits of that system, and the first modification of that system, were laid during that economic and moral convulsion which shook the moral universe from center to circumference—the French revolution. Historians dispute today as to the cause of the French revolution. If you would know the cause, you will not find it in the days transpiring with the fall of the Bastille; you will not find it in the days when Robespierre, trunk with human blood, leaned against the pillars of the assembly, as he listened to his own doom. It is back of that. It is in those immediate years preceding, when the burden of government had become intolerable, when the stipends paid to the miserable satellites of royalty had become criminal; when bureaucracy reached out into every part of the nation and bore down upon the energies and the industries of the common man; and when 85 per cent of that fearful burden was collected from the peasantry of France, which forced them from their little homes and farms into the sinks and ditches of Paris, where the French revolution was born.—United States Senator William E. Borah, in "Concerning the Income Tax Bill," in National Magazine for January.

Sunflower Philosophy.

It is better to do well than to mean well.

The best get-rich-quick scheme in the world is for a poor girl to marry a rich man.

When a man is old there is no mistake, the fact, but a woman can catch herself up.

When John D. Rockefeller was a boy his parents were always scolding him by telling him that he was liable to go to the poorhouse. They frightened him so thoroughly that he now owns nearly all the money in the world.

The suffragettes of New Jersey will ask for a law compelling every married man to wear a ring on his thumb, to show that he is married. Since most married men already have rings in their noses now, this additional mark would seem unnecessary.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

That's So.

"Dare the senate tolerate Lorimer after all the people have found out?" inquires the Ohio State Journal. Why not? It not only tolerates but applauds Ballinger.—Topeka Capital.

He's Mighty Handy, Anyhow.

There is a well-defined impression in some quarters that half of the paragraphs who use Secretary Ballinger as a daily diet don't know whether he was responsible for the tea tax stamp, or formulated the Dred Scott decision.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

One of Frank's Jobs.

The Rev. Dr. Frank DeWitt Talmage, who followed in the footsteps of his famous father and is now pastor of the Chambers-Wylie Presbyterian Church, tells a story on himself. A parishioner touched the elder Talmage one day, and was relating how he wanted the price of a night's lodging.

The great pulpit orator had provided lodgings for the fellow before and wanted to know why he did not try to get work.

Evading the question the hobo said he had been converted by the younger Talmage.

"Well, you look like one of Frank's jobs," said Dr. Talmage.

Rural Genius.

Silas—Gosh, Hiram Spruceby has succeeded in making his goose lay golden eggs at last.

Cyrus—Do tell how he do it.

Silas—Why, he fed them on gold paint.

POETRY FOR TODAY

NO PLACE FOR CONSISTENCY.

No jewel is consistency
If we employ it when we speak;
We may refer to one who "spoke,"
But never to a thing that "loke."
Though there are vessels that may leak.

It is not wrong to say it "snowed,"
But never, never say it "snew";
You must not ever say it "blowed."
The simple truth is that it "blew."

You may, without committing sin,
Refer to yarns that one has "spun,"
But, though those yarns cause men to grin
It would be wrong to say they
"grun."

We say of him who bravely strives
That yesterday he proudly "strove";
But say not that he who connives
A week or month ago "connove."

No jewel is consistency
If we apply it to our speech;
"taught,"
But one who preaches never
"praught,"
Nor have they ever "raught" who reach.

PHILOSOPHY.

If there's no sun, I still can have the moon;
If there's no moon, the stars my needs suffice;
And if these fail, I have my evening lamp;
Or, lampless, there's my trusty tallow dip;
And if the dip goes out, my couch remains,
Here I may sleep and dream there's light again.
—John Kendrick Bangs.

Cattle Steamer Sinks.

Odessa, Feb. 11.—The cattle steam-er Sturman has been lost at sea and the 41 persons on board, among them a number of women, wives and daugh-ters of the cattlemen owning the ves-sel, have perished. Wreckage of the vessel was found upon the coast by life guards. It is reported that a steam barge foundered with the Stur-man and eight sailors drowned.

Legislative Probers to Get Informa-tion at First Hand.

Columbus, O., Feb. 11.—The house passed the Freiner joint resolution for a commission of three senators and three house members to ascer-tain the amount of rental paid by the state for offices outside the state house, and the probable cost of a site and office building. Freiner claims the rental in eight or 10 years would pay for a $250,000 or $300,000 building.

The special committee of the house which has under consideration the Hamilton county legislative contest has decided to go to Cincinnati to look over the situation and possibly take some additional evidence. The committee has decided to meet at the Gibson House at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning next. They will take a look at the "Silver Moon" and other lodging houses to decide whether they want to hear any additional evi-dence.

A large number of bills were in-troduced in the house, among them being the following:

Mr. Cowan of Putnam—To prevent preparation of criminals and imbeciles by requiring surgical operation known as vasectomy.

Mr. Turner of Fairfield—To define burglary with explosives and punish it with imprisonment of from 25 to 40 years.

Mr. Black of Ashland—The com-mission's workmen's compensation bill.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Dispatches received by the Red Cross here dis-close appalling famine conditions in China. Amos P. Another report received by the Red Cross says that horrifying scenes are being enacted, that parents are trying in despera-tion to give away their children and that dead bodies are lying along the roads.

The report from Shanghai adds that at least $500,000 in gold will be needed immediately to relieve the suffering.

Tuscarawas Operators Hurl De-fiance at Miners' Leader.

Canton, O., Feb. 11.—Failure by officials representing 3,500 miners on strike in the Tuscarawas-Sherrods-ville district to reach an agreement with their employing operators in their first conference here brought the surprising announcement from President Tom L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America that unless the operators capitulated by next Wednesday, 200,000 miners in eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and part of West Virginia would be ordered on a strike. The mines which the union will try to close are those owned by the operators in the affected districts.

Lewis' ultimatum only served to stiffen the operators in their deter-mination not to yield, and it was hurled back in his teeth by President C. L. Cassingham Cleveland, of the Eastern Ohio Operators' association, and J. J. Roby of the Roby Coal com-pany, Cleveland.

The threatened strike would tie up the largest mines in the three states, as all the big operators in this sec-tion own mines in the district in which the strike has been on since last June.

Scout Views Fight In Aeroplane

Hamilton Views Battlefield, but Fails to Locate Insurrectos.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 11.—The first man who ever looked down from a heavier-than-air machine on an army engaged in real warfare is Charles Hamilton. In a test flight at Wash-ington park Hamilton sailed along the international boundary for a few minutes and was able to observe the Mexican and American soldiers guarding both sides of the river.

He says he could see for 20 miles, but saw no insurgents anywhere, and the result caused considerable relief in Juarez, where they had been hearing that Navarro when he marched in with federal reinforce-ments would be ambuscaded by in-surrectos.

Arizona Voters Ratify Constitution

Citizens of Arizona Fear For Docu-ment in Washington.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 11.—Returns from the territory generally show that the constitution has been rat-ified by about 78 per cent of the voters. The vote was surprisingly light, being only about 15,000, as compared with 27,000 cast in the congressional election in 1908. Only Apache county gave a majority against the document.

It is now proposed to send a train-load of Arizonians to Washington to protest against possible adverse ac-tion by congress and the president because of the Populistic features that have been put into the constitu-tion in following the lead of Okla-homa and Oregon.

Eggleston Gets Two Years.

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 11.—William H. Eggleston, former assistant super-intendent of the money order division of the Cincinnati postoffice, was sen-tenced to two years in the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., on his plea of guilty to a charge of embezzling $1,200 of the money order funds.

Schoolhouse Burns to Ground.

Sandusky, O., Feb. 11.—The North Ridge schoolhouse was burned to the ground. Reports reaching this city are to the effect that boys who pre-ferred to be free from school re-sponsibilities were responsible for the conflagration, and Lucius H. Smith, deputy state fire marshal, will investigate.

Prohibition Workers to Meet.

Columbus, O., Feb. 11.—A state conference of Prohibition party work-ers will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building Wednesday, Feb. 22. It is expected that between 400 and 600 people will attend. A. S. Watkins of Chicago, who was the party's presi-dential candidate in 1908, will be a speaker.

Give Husband Big Damages.

St. Clairsville, O., Feb. 11.—A jury, after being out only three minutes, brought in a verdict for $10,000 dam-ages against John Nowall, a wealthy Barnesville man, in a suit for $20,000 brought by John B. Stevens for alienating his wife's affections. Now-all did not appear to fight the case, and after four of the children had testified to finding their mother in a compromising position with the de-fendant at her home during the ab-sence of the husband, the case was ended by the court declaring the jury could do nothing but return a verdict for the plaintiff.

TWENTY-THREE YEARS HAVE MADE CHANGES

In Washington, Scarcely Realized by Those who Have Gone Along with the Business Current During that Time. Mr. Lewis Baer Mails Old Issues of Herald, Containing Items of Interest.

Mr. Lewis Baer, now of Hope, Arkansas, formerly, for years one of Washington's most influential business men, has kindly forwarded to THE HERALD an issue of that paper dated Friday, December 28th, 1888.

The old paper is a peculiar looking four-page six-column affair when laid down beside the present modern paper of 8 pages, 6 columns each. It shows at a glance what wonderful progress has been made.

Among the interesting items in the old issue we find "Jim Davis, the bootblack, who walked up and struck Wad Underwood a severe blow in the face on Christmas Day, is serving a sentence in the cooler, and is paving the way for a trip over the road to the Zanesville stone pile. This fellow is a little too rapid to be allowed the free use of our streets, and a stone pile trip might do him good." Poor old Wad Underwood has long since died and been buried, while "Little Jimmy" is one of our best working colored men nowadays.

An assignment of one of the local merchants to the Hon. H. M. Daugherty then a practicing attorney at the bar, is also recorded.

In the columns also may be found an account of an injury sustained by Lelia the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Coffman, who fell down stairs. Dr. Coffman was summoned as physician to minister to the injured child.

The failure of the fox drive on that day is also recorded. The paper stating that several foxes were seen to escape through the line but none were captured.

The longest item in the paper is the news of an addition to the carriage factory of E. G. Tuthill and the purchase of the building in which it was then located on Fayette street across the alley from the George I. Bailey Livery stable, by the late Geo. Melvin.

Notice of Dissolution of the partnership existing between John E. Green and Wm. James in "the butchering business" was also published.

That 23 years has made wonderful changes in the business interests of Washington as well as in the appearance of THE HERALD is shown by the news recorded in the old paper.

The Emma Bell Comedy company is advertised to play "Hobbies" at the old opera house on the night of December 28th.

Importance and the police announce that they will play no favorites in enforcing this order.

Personal Paragraphs

FUNERAL OF MRS. JOHN W. GILLESPIE

Simple and beautiful funeral services were conducted over all that was mortal of Mrs. John W. Gillespie Saturday morning a half past ten o'clock, at the residence.

The home was filled with relatives and friends, who gathered in tribute to the dead and sympathy to the living.

Rev. F. W. Locke, of Grace church conducted the services, adding to the memoir words of appreciation of the mother and comfort for her bereaved children.

Mrs. Welter Shoop sang the hymn, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages" very beautifully.

There were many lovely floral remembrances, among them a wreath of roses and lilies of the valley from the Washington Gas and Electric Light Co., a basket of violets from the F. L. Stutson store, and casket spray of carnations from the Pythian Sisters, spray from W. C. T. U.

Friends accompanied the family to the Washington cemetery for the burial.

Acting as pallbearers were the nephews, Mr. John Myers, of Woodlyn; Mr. John Jones, of Bloomingburg; Mr. Fuller Hess, Mr. Will Jefferson, of Bloomingburg; Messrs. Tom Grove and Chas. Gesner.

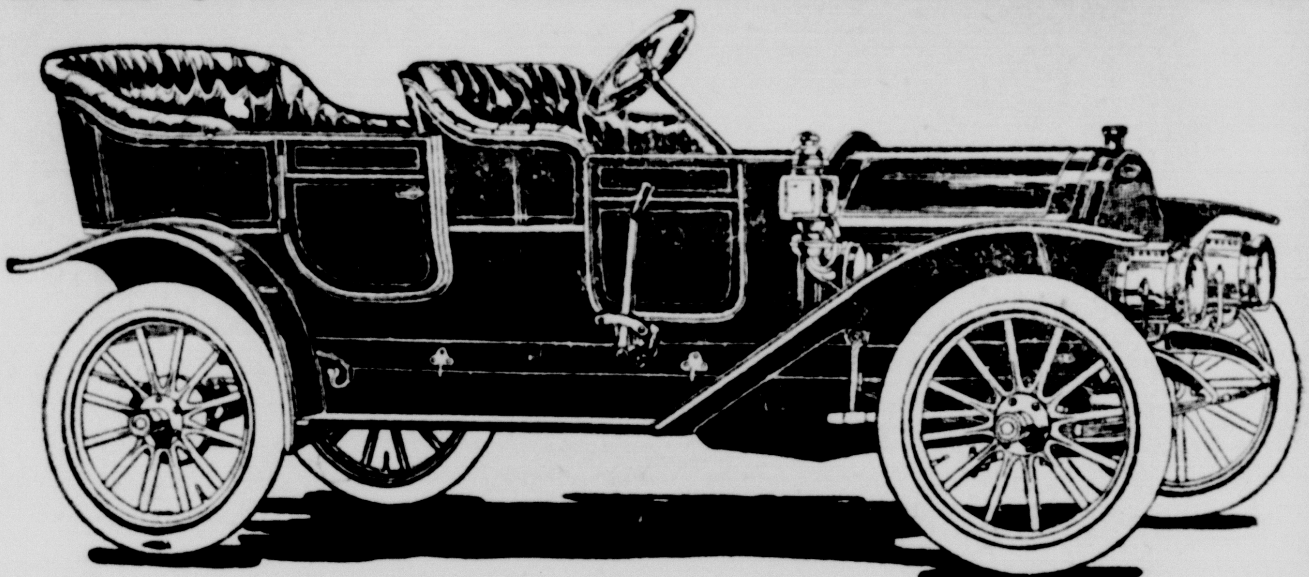

Mr. H. E. Hennis and son, Roy, joined Mrs. Hennis from Vincennes, Ind., and other relatives here for the funeral were Mrs. Massie, of Greenfield and Mr. John Myers, of Woodlyn.

House-Renting and House-Selling Are Want Ad Tasks

They are such "usual tasks" for the want ads that it would be hard to find a rented house whose tenant did not find it through answering an ad—or an owned house whose purchase and sale did not originate in a classified ad.

If these facts are not significant to owners of property, no facts whatever would be.

LOCK UP OR MUZZLE YOUR DOG

Last Monday morning a strange dog with stranger actions passed through the city, and during his progress is reported to have bitten a number of dogs.

Many of the citizens who saw the dog insist that he was "mad" and are much alarmed lest some of the dogs which were bitten by him should develop the dread rabies.

Joseph Harper, residing on Elm street had a dog bitten by the strange canine and immediately afterward fastened his dog up and watched his symptoms day by day. Saturday morning the dog exhibited to Mr. Harper, conclusive evidence that he was afflicted with hydrophobia and he at once notified the police to come over and shoot him.

People are considerably alarmed over the situation—perhaps unnecessarily so—and are insisting that dogs be kept locked, muzzled or that they be killed.

So general has this complaint become that Chief Devaney has announced that all dogs found on the street without muzzles shall be shot. He warns all owners of dogs who do not desire them killed that they must either keep their pets locked up or muzzled until after the excitement blows over.

HARDWARE COMPANY WILL GIVE AWAY AUTO

The Fayette County Hardware Co. is inaugurating a gigantic popularity contest which will accord the most popular of its patrons an opportunity to secure a fine new Regal Model L. F., thirty, Fore Door Type 36 H. P. automobile.

The machine is a spick and span, brand new 1911, with top and wind shield, high tension magneto, gas and oil lamp equipment, with generator, horn, tools, etc., all complete, which would stand on the floor at $1200 to a cash purchaser.

The magnitude of this splendid offer indicates that the company possesses a progressive spirit and go-ahead methods in harmony with the times, and the people of the district.

As to the details governing the contest the company's advertising matter fully explains. The progress of the contest will be constantly open to public inspection through the columns of the press and elsewhere.

GOING FAST!

NEVER IN OUR HISTORY

Have we sold, in the same length of time, so many Pianos as in the last three days. Every visitor to the great sale has been surprised and pleased. Some who came to criticize with little thought of buying, went away with the certainty that they had obtained a good Piano and saved a snug sum of money. Why not be a gainer yourself by this great opportunity? Have you not a child, the pride of the family, why not come and gladden the heart?—These pianos are less than a dealer can buy them for. Remember, we bought a big bankrupt stock from the Bank—hence, the prices; don't wait until all the bargains are snapped up—but come and be convinced of the genuineness of this sale—No such prices and terms will ever be offered the people in this section again, so it's up to you. We could go on indefinitely, telling of special values to be had at the great sale. All we can say in any advertisement is a mere suggestion. See prices above.

SCHOOL BOARD CLOSING DEAL

Will Receive Bids from Banks Which Want to Act as Depositories for the Fund Realized from the Bond Sale.

The city Board of Education met yesterday afternoon at four o'clock and adopted a resolution calling for bids from banks desiring to act as depositories for the $100,000 which is to be realized from the bond sale.

The money, the bulk of it probably $60,000, will remain on deposit after it is paid in by the purchasers of the bonds, for probably six months before it is expended by the Board of Education. It is to have this money earning something for the people while it remains unexpended, in part at least, take care of the interest which the bonds will draw, that bids for the privilege of holding it on deposit is asked from the banks.

It will be deposited in the banks offering the highest rate of interest for the deposit.

Owing to the size of the capital stock of our local banks no one of the local banks can take more than $50,000 of the fund on deposit and this provision will therefore necessitate a deal being made with at least two banks.

Bids for the money will be received up until next Wednesday when the offers will be opened and inspected and the depositories chosen.

It seems also that under the law the money must be deposited in banks in Washington special school district forbidding going outside for a depository.

The clerk of the Board was notified yesterday that the Bonding House—Well, Roth and Company—had examined the abstract of title to the bonds and were thoroughly satisfied that all proceedings had been regular and that the title was good.

Copy of the bond was sent with instructions to have the lithographing done at once.

RHUBARB IN FEBRUARY.

Rhubarb in February is something out of the ordinary, but Mrs. Alec Alkire has a rhubarb bed from which she has cut several times and is cutting again today.

The bed is made in big boxes in the cellar of Mr. John E. Green's home, the Alkire's living in one of the Green houses on Yeoman street. The stalks are as transparent as wine and much more delicate than the summer variety.

Mrs. Alkire and her friends have been enjoying fresh rhubarb pies as if it were summer.

Drops Roll to Pool Sharks.

Columbus, O., Feb. 11.—C. W. Bowers, who came up from his home in Sugar Grove to see Taft, got into a pool game with two strangers in "The Senate" poolroom right after arriving and was fleeced out of $1,000 in cash. Bowers and the police are now looking for a man who gave his name as "C. Cole of Williams, W. Va., and his 'unknown friend,' who joined the party at the poolroom and suggested the game of pool.

EMPIRE OPERA HOUSE.

Manager Dale of the above known popular place of amusement, has secured the National Stock Co. and Miss Fay St. John for a return engagement commencing Monday, February 13th and lasting the entire week. It is one of the few stock companies that have made a successful tour of the central states the past season, and the secret of their success is that they give the patrons the best show obtainable for their money. The company is playing at Wilmington this week, it being their second visit there also, and the word received from some who witnessed the performances there, is that the show is even better than when last seen here early in the season.

The opening play is the four-act comedy drama, "Reaping the Harvest."

Modest Home Destroyed By Fire

Yesterday morning about 11 o'clock the five room frame house owned by Mart Gray in the north-eastern section of the English addition, was completely destroyed by fire together with nearly all of the household goods furniture and family clothing. Mrs. Gray and her little daughter, about seven years old, were alone in the house at the time and Mrs. Gray was up in the city at work.

Flames were first noticed in the corner of the ceiling by the little girl, who was in the front room. She immediately ran to her mother who was in the kitchen, and confirming the little girl's alarm by looking herself at the flames which were then roaring in the little attic, both mother and daughter ran screaming from the little home to summon neighbors. In her flight from the house the mother passed long enough to carry out the baby which was in the kitchen with her.

Neighbors summoned the fire department and set to work to carry out the household goods.

But little was saved from the house as it burned very rapidly, and until the arrival of the fire fighters there were few men about the neighborhood, nearly all being away at their work.

The fire department was a long time in arriving at the scene of the fire on account of the great distance from the center of the city and the bad roads. When the fire fighters arrived on the scene they were handicapped by the long distance of the house from the water plugs. The house was a total loss and no insurance at all was carried.

Mr. Gray is a hardworking man and the loss falls particularly heavy upon him and his little family.

For an early breakfast nothing so good Mrs. Austin's Pancake Flour.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Editor Washington Daily Herald:

You say you want letters from the "people" so I have indicated a few lines which I hope you will allot the required space in your column devoted to "our readers".

OH YOU ANTI POINT, BOND BUYER, CARPING CRITIC.

Don't you want to be like the city of New York? You do eh? Well then let the school board erect the building on the "pint". We will then have a Flat Iron ourselves, like the big town, (except the back side, will front side up street). What difference will that make anyhow? It is to be mostly glass, and ours will have an entry, 2 flukes and lather on the porch.

Let them sell the bonds if they want to without advertising. That will be High Finance, another resemblance to the Paris of America.

Don't criticize because they don't tear down the old building, and utilize the material and ground on which it stands for the new home of education. It is a dear old landmark, like Bartholdi's Statue of Liberty, and should not be disturbed, even if it is a central and good location.

Beside, we may want to rent out the old school house grounds for cow pasture some day, and could not do so if it were covered with brick, stone, cement and—and—glass.

What if one member of this board did indirectly, sell his Ozark mountains to his fellow members? Do we not get the valleys between the hills?

Is it not a good place, and enough of it to allow the boy scouts to charge and counter charge on imaginary Indians? Have we not one hundred thousand dollars to spend some way?

Oh shut up. Be satisfied to be citified. Be bonafide.

FIDELITY.

FORTIFYING OF PANAMA CANAL UP IN CONGRESS

Army Board Submits Plans and Estimates of the Cost.

Washington, D. C.—One of the most interesting subjects before congress is the plan for fortifying the Panama canal submitted by the board of ordnance and fortifications of the army.

The arguments of the anti-fortification men have induced President Taft to reduce the expenditure to be made for defense of the canal.

In August the army board presented to the executive a plan which proposed an expenditure of $19,545,843. As a compromise the president ordered the members of the board to reconsider their recommendations.

Subsequently the board reduced their estimate approximately 15 per cent. They also decided that it would be sufficient to erect a cheaper type of emplacements for the guns.

The barracks for the troops to be stationed on the canal were, under the original plan, to have been constructed of concrete.

The second plan contemplates wood.

The third point was in the distribution of the troops. Instead of scattering them widely over the isthmus the board has concentrated the force and rearranged the land defense plans to permit of quick mobilization of the various parts of the force at the different vulnerable points when danger threatens.

"Since the date of the submission of the original report," says the fortification board, "further experience has been had as to the cost of emplacements of the type of those it is proposed to construct for the defense of the canal and as to the cost of structures of a type suitable for housing of troops in the canal zone. Based on this experience modifications have been made in the estimates of cost."

"These modifications and the reduction of the seacoast armament have permitted a reduction in the total of the estimates of cost given in the report of August 12 of approximately one-third."

The board recommends that eight 14-inch rifles, 12 6-inch rifles, 24 12-inch mortars be provided for seacoast defense of the canal against naval attack.

The construction of permanent field works for defense of the canal and fortifications against field attack by raiding parties is also recommended. The board believes these should be completed by the time the canal is opened.

A permanent garrison is recommended for the canal zone, to be composed in time of peace of 12 companies of coast artillery, four regiments of infantry, one battalion of field artillery and one squadron of cavalry.

This force is to be augmented in time of war by detachments from the United States whenever necessary.

It is also recommended that the problem of land operations in the canal zone be referred to the war college for study.

The cost of the defenses recommended by the board is estimated at $12,475,328. This includes $4,081,500 for the emplacement of the defenses $1,966,000 for guns and carriages; $1,181,188 for ammunition; $204,000 for searchlights; $2,814,000 for the permanent post of the land forces.

The board is unable to make a close estimate of the total cost of construction of the naval stations. It stated for the reason that the scope of the stations has not been definitely indicated to it by the navy department.

In any event the principal point to be settled on these questions is the location of the dry docks and that cannot be determined without examination and borings.

The board records its opinion that naval establishments provided with such facilities as the navy department shall consider necessary are the essential part of the defense of the canal, and should be provided equally with the projected land defenses.

"It is conservatively estimated that the canal will be completed and in use by January 1, 1916, and it is quite possible that it may be completed before that date," says the report. "As it will require several years to construct and emplace the proposed armament the initiation of the work should not be deferred beyond the close of the present fiscal year."

Regarding the actual location of the forts, the report says that comparatively strong positions exist at both the Atlantic and Pacific for defense against land operations of an enemy.

It is asserted that these natural defense positions can be greatly strengthened by clearing the ground, by the construction of good military roads for quick transfer of troops—one of the most important considerations in military operations—and by the construction of obstacles to impede the progress of the enemy.

There is not, however, any immediate need for the mapping out of the military plans for this defense until the construction of the forts and the emplacement of the armament is well under way.

The war department is now at work upon a military map studying the tactical problems presented because of the peculiar topography of the country.

With the report of the board which was sent to congress with a message of the president, there was included a letter from Secretary of War Dickinson, who after concurring in the report of the board, said:

"I concur in the conclusions and recommendations set forth in the accompanying report of the board, and I am of the opinion that the project recommended by the board, when carried into execution, will provide a secure defense for the canal at the minimum practicable cost."

"The military relation of the Panama canal to the interests of the United States is of so vital a matter that the consensus of military and naval opinion, in which I concur, is that assured possession and control of that canal will be an indispensable condition to our national security and welfare."

For the immediate work necessary congress is asked to appropriate $5,000,000. This will permit the placing of contracts for a large portion of the material at once, and ensure the progress of the work.

DEBATE OVER ECONOMY

Hitchcock Methods of Crippling Mail Service Roundly Scored.

Washington, D. C.—Acrimonious criticism of parsimony on the part of Postmaster General Hitchcock, carried to the extreme of actually crippling the railway mail service, caused a lively debate in the house recently.

Representative Martin of South Dakota opened the fusillade by a severe arraignment of Hitchcock's "spasm of economy at the expense of efficiency."

"The policy of the department in the growing states of the west," he declared, "has given us a very inadequate railway mail service. For something over six months we have been endeavoring to get relief in various parts of the state for an over-worked postal service, and the situation has become so intense that our state legislature the day before yesterday passed a resolution memorializing the postmaster general and indirectly congress to make ample provision to relieve this situation."

"It is a matter of daily experience that important mail is carried by piled up at the end of the division, starts back on the next train, and some of it is worked out and some of it brought back a second time. On practically every route in South Dakota the postal clerks are overworked, and sufficient clerks are not supplied to perform the service."

Martin elicited the fact from Representative Weeks of Massachusetts in charge of the postoffice appropriation bill, that the appropriation this year for the railway mail service shows a decrease of $579,100 under last year, and that it provides for a decrease of 404 clerks.

Representative Kendall of Iowa declared that the department had recently forced clerks to work overtime without compensation in place of fellow clerks who were sick or otherwise absent.

"One clerk that I know of has worked 46 nights without additional compensation, and in addition to his regular work," he declared.

Representative Nye of Minnesota declared that the department's plan to "take up the slack" in the service had resulted in impairing its efficiency. He pleaded for the "square deal" for the railway mail clerks.

Representative Weeks, chairman of the postoffice committee, defended the department. He admitted, however, that during the last three months there had been frequent complaints of poor service and read a letter from J. T. Canfield, president of the Railway Mail Service Clerks' association, petitioning the postmaster general for amelioration of conditions.

The latter stated that the railway mail clerks worked on an average of 2,500 hours a year, as against the 1,900 hours per year which was the portion of the government clerk, that the department had discontinued the practice of allowing substitutes and that the situation generally was unsatisfactory.

When the house adjourned late in the afternoon several amendments designed to relieve working conditions were pending.

All of these amendments will come up for disposition Monday, when consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill is resumed.

Replying to a New York inquiry, Consul General S. S. Kuabenshue of Tientsin says that Chinese do not use pipes, etc., like those in America. All native pipe smokers use the Chinese pipe, a small metallic bowl with stem about a foot long. Those who do not use this smoke cigarettes. There has been an active campaign for the last year by various foreign cigarette manufacturers—American, English and Japanese—and lately Chinese factories have been established, competing with the foreigners.

Newspapers in England had not the right to criticize the policy of the king and ministers until the end of the eighteenth century. Mr. Walter, the first editor of the London Times, had to serve a year's imprisonment for censuring the Duke of York.

STATE UNIVERSITIES

Their Origin and Endowment.

Organization of the Ohio State University.

The first law providing federal aid to state institutions of learning was passed by Congress and received President Lincoln's approval in 1862. It is known as the Morrill Act and provided that there should be granted to each state an amount of public land equal to 30,000 acres for each senator and representative in congress to which the state was entitled by the apportionment of the census of 1860. The proceeds arising from the sales of this land were to constitute a fund that should become a part of the irreducible debt of the state and the income arising therefrom should go to the maintenance of a college, providing the state, by act of its legislature, would accept the grant and pledge faithful performance of its provisions.

The college thus founded should, without excluding scientific and classical studies and including military science, teach those branches of learning related to agriculture and the mechanic arts, in such manner as the state legislature should prescribe, in order to promote a liberal and practical education of the industrial classes.

Ohio Accepts.

In Ohio, Governor Tod brought the matter to the attention of the legislature and in February, 1864, the Delano bill was passed accepting the grant. It was over six years later, however, before the legislature passed the laws necessary to carry into effect the provisions of the Morrill Act in order to establish the college.

In 1870 an act to establish and maintain an Agricultural and Mechanical College was passed. The institution was located in Columbus and was opened for reception of students in September, 1871.

The State University.

In 1875 an act reorganizing the school was passed, which, among other things, provided that the name thereafter should be "The Ohio State University." With the reorganization came a larger and broader view of the state's relation to the university, and financial aid began to be given by direct appropriations. In 1899, by act of congress, a permanent annual grant of $25,000 was made to all the land-grant colleges. After 1912 this amount will be $50,000 by act of 1907.

State Aid.

In 1891 the state legislature established a permanent annual grant to the university based on a certain percentage of the general tax duplicate. This percentage has been increased from time to time until it reached the present rate of 16 cents for each $1,000 on the general tax duplicate of the state. In other words, for every thousand dollars' worth of property returned to the assessor for taxation, the owner pays 16 cents tax to maintain the State University.

The Colleges.

As organized at present, the University comprises seven colleges: Agriculture, Arts, Philosophy and Science, Education, Engineering, Law, Pharmacy, and Veterinary Medicine.

The College of Agriculture offers courses in all the various lines of instruction related to agricultural subjects and domestic science. Over 700 students are enrolled in the college this year.

The College of Arts, Philosophy and Science offers those courses that are designed to furnish a student what is commonly known as a liberal education. The work is in the languages and literatures, the sciences, mathematics, philosophy, history, politics, administration, economics, sociology, and commerce. Eight hundred and twenty students are enrolled in this college.

The College of Education is designed to meet the needs of those who wish to follow teaching as a profession. Its purpose is to assist the student in acquiring a knowledge of the branches he wishes to teach, to give him a right attitude toward education and to establish in him a skill in the use of efficient methods of teaching. This college has 63 students.

The College of Engineering offers instruction in eight fields of engineering work: Architecture, ceramic, chemical, civil, electrical, mechanical and mine engineering, and industrial arts. Eight hundred and forty students are taking work in this college.

The College of Law meets the desires of those who wish to enter the practice of law as a profession. One hundred and sixty-six students are enrolled.

The College of Pharmacy offers every facility for a training in all that pertains to the subject of pharmacy. It prepares those who wish to practice the profession so that they may pass the required examinations for registration. This college has 87 students.

The College of Veterinary Medicine endeavors to equip young men to meet the growing demand for skilled veterinarians. This college has 183 young men taking its work this year.

What Constitutes a Good Investment

"It is Easier to Earn Money Than to Save It."

How to invest savings, or surplus funds of any kind, is frequently a difficult problem. How to be sure that the principal will be safe; that the interest will be paid promptly; that in case of necessity the investment can readily be converted into cash—all of these points which enter so vitally into the life of a good investment are not always easy of determination. This Bank offers you in its
